SULTAN MOHAMMED OF TURKS IN FLIGHT STILL CLINGS TO THRONE, DEFYING NEW REGIME

Nationalist Assembly At Angora Decides To Place Late Ruler On Trial Along With His Ministers For Alleged Betrayal Of Nation—Violence In Constantinople

Farmer-Labor Senator From Minnesota

Dr. Hendrik Shipstead, Minneapolis, Minn., dentist, has been elected to the U. S. Senate on the Farmer-Labor ticket. He was strongly supported by Senator La-Follette.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Sultan Mohammed VI fled from Turkey today on a British warship, according to a news agency dispatch from Constantinople. The sultan took refuge on the British warship Malaya in the Golden Horn, which later steamed for Malta, the British naval base in the Mediterranean.

The Turkish Nationalist assembly at Angora had already abolished the sultanate and ordered the sultan placed on trial charged with betraying Turkey.

Violence was reported from Constantinople. Hussein Hilmid, leader of the Turkish Socialist party was assassinated.

As the Sultan went on board the Malaya he said he was not abdicating the throne but was merely going to a place of safety. The allied high commissioners feared the ruler would be assassinated.

Mohammed VI said he did not recognize the Angora decree abolishing the sultanate.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 17.—The Turkish Nationalist Assembly has decided to place the Sultan, Mohammed VI on trial along with his ministers on the charge of betraying Turkey according to a dispatch from Angora today.

The Sultan is at present under the protection of the allies and is guarded by British soldiers. The manner of applying the assembly's decision and the date of the trial were not explained in the telegram.

It was stated however, that the accusations would be based on certain telegrams received in Angora from the grand vizier. There is a possibility that the Kemalist government will send a note to the allies making a formal request that Mohammed VI be surrendered.

Rafet Pasha, representative in Constantinople of Mustapha Kemal Pasha continues to give the allied high commissions much trouble. He has apparently adopted a policy of "annoyance." He has placed guards over the depots of surrendered war materials and refused to allow allied officials of the sales committee to view the materials.

Acting upon instructions from Angora Rafet has told the high commissioners that the Turkish government expects allied officers to handle only military affairs affecting allied armies and navies. He suggested that liason officers be appointed to work with the Turkish military police.

The American warship Pittsburgh has arrived here and is at anchor off the city.

NATIVE VIRGINIAN BACK IN COMMONS TO FIGHT LIQUOR

Viscountess Astor Ill As Result Of Strain Campaign Brot

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Nov. 17 — Viscountess Astor, who was re-elected to the house of commons, is ill today as a result of the nervous strain of her strenuous campaign. She is also suffering from a cold but the attending physician said her condition was not serious.

Despite her illness Viscountess Astor was able to leave her sick bed to receive an International News Service correspondent this afternoon.

She showed signs of weariness and wear.

"The new cabinet is reactionary, but I am confident that there will be an early swing to the left," she said. "There is a possibility of even a Socialist-Labor victory in the not distant future. That is my observation of the election result.

"I intend to fight for educational and housing reforms and hope that the cabinet will support me in these measures.

"I believe that the main fact of my own success was the anti-American cry raised by my opponents. I did not try to hide my Virginia birth. There is ground for the belief that Britain and America are going to continue to co-operate. The American pussyfoot influence which the liquor traders claimed was being used here is the bunk. It was only empty clamor. Nothing to it. It was a bogey to frighten and prejudice public opinion.

"There is a latent and growing feeling in favor of my local option bill to control the liquor traffic. I believe the swing toward temperance is growing stronger and

Millionaire Steel Man Is Believer In The Forefathers' Policy

FOR SHIP SUBSIDY

Position Outlined Is Directly Opposed To That Of Gary

By W. K. HUTCHINSON
(Copyright, 1922, by I. N. S.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—While business conditions in the United States and thruout the world generally are unsettled because of uncertainty over the European situation, it is nevertheless not up to the United States to call any world conference such as has been proposed from time to time, Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate, said today in an interview with an International News Service correspondent.

"I am a firm believer," said the millionaire steel head, "in the principles laid down by the men who founded this country of 'no entangling alliances abroad'"

In opposing any general conference for the settlement of the world's industrial ills, Schwab takes a position directly opposed to Judge E. H. Gary, head of the U. S. Steel corporation, who in an address to a gathering of steel men a few weeks ago, advocated the calling of such a conference by President Harding.

"This nation," said Schwab, "is endowed with great natural resources, which we should turn into gold. And while I believe we should adopt a helpful attitude toward other nations, I do not believe we should take a position of

Chicago Is Second City In Number Of Deaths, New York First—Cleveland Follows Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Detroit, Pittsburgh And St. Louis

The automobile is still heaping up its dead.

Statistics gathered from a number of cities covering the first nine months of the year show no apparent falling off from the death registration in the United States last year due to auto accidents.

Figures compiled here today give evidence that the death rate due to auto accidents is still high.

Figures for 1922 are still incomplete. Following is a summary of reports gathered by the International News Service:

The nine months of this year show 1,289 deaths.

RUSS WHEAT CROP O. K., SAYS SOVIET

M. Bruchanoff, Commissary for Food, Says Production Above The Average

MOSCOW, Nov. 17 — Russia's harvest this year is satisfactory, according to a statement issued by M. Bruchanoff, people's commissary for food.

"The rye harvest is now finally known," he says. "Only in one district, Petrograd, is it below the average. In most places it is good or very good.

"The final wheat report is not yet available, but there are no bad reports from any part. Although the area sown in the famine region is 30 per cent below the previous year, yet the harvest thruought the Republic is 35 per cent higher. Last year the total amounted to thirty-one million tons; this year it will be forty-seven millions.

"The Volga area will feed itself, altho some districts are still badly off for food. The whole region is also suffering from having to support a great number of orphans and from a shortage of livestock. The food tax in this area is therefore being used to relieve the distressed district and increase the amount of land being sown.

"There may be about three million tons of grain available for export, but personally I advise the establishment of reverses against the possibility of a recurrence of famine at some time."

PASSAGE OF SHIP SUBSIDY BILL BEFORE MARCH HOPED FOR BY PRESIDENT HARDING

Message Prepared For Special Session Deals Almost Exclusively With Ship Subsidy Bill—Administration Hopes To Elude Soldier Bonus Agitation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—President Harding today presented to the cabinet the tentative draft of his message to the special session of congress which he is expected to deliver at the capitol in person Thursday afternoon.

Only a few minor details remained to be cleared up before the message is ready for final presentation, it was said.

The president is anxious to secure approval of his cabinet to the draft before putting it in final form.

The massage is said to be short, but forceful, and deals almost exclusively with the merchant marine act, to which the administration is pledged.

Other legislative matters will only be touched upon in a perfunctory manner.

President Harding feels very hopeful the ship subsidy can be passed before March, despite the strong opposition expected to be launched against it, especially in the senate. This optimistic attitude is also held by Chairman Lasker of the shipping board.

Nothing will be left undone to jam the measure to passage with all possible expedition.

President Harding has stressed this point in conference with congressional backers. The president is especially desirous, it is said, that the ship subsidy be cleared from the legislative calendar early, so that appropriation bills can be passed before March 4, thus avoiding the necessity of calling a special session of the new congress next spring.

The president wants to give the nation a long rest from congress after March.

Aside from the ship subsidy, the Republican program for this session, said to have been tentatively agreed on in discussions between the president and house and senate leaders are reported to include:

1—Passage of all regular appropriation and supply bills.

2—Consideration of legislation to establish a system of long term credits, ranging from two to three years, for farmers.

3—Consideration of amendments to the transportation act, aimed to

SAYS GIRLS OF OLD WERE JUST AS BOLD

Y. W. C. A. Worker, Mother Herself, Thinks The Modern Girls Will Make Good Women

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 17.—It is the observation of Mrs. J. Scott Parrish, of Richmond, Va., and president of the city's Y. W. C. A., that the girl of a score of years ago got just as much pleasure out of exceeding the social speed limit as does the girl of to-day, and that at heart she was just as blase and took just as many chances as the modern girl with bobbed hair and never-tiring vivacity.

"Inwardly the girl of twenty years ago loved all the things our modern girl does. She took just as many chances, but she was less open about it and consequently 'got by,' as we would say to-day," declared Mrs. Parrish in an interview here, where she was attending the Southern Conference of the Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Parrish, who is a mother, said she could not agree with the popular version regarding the present generation.

"But our bobbed hair, never-tiring vivacious girl of to-day will be the mother of to-morrow and she will make a good one. I cannot believe otherwise.

"I have all confidence in our happy-go-lucky, frank and abovt-board girl of to-day," continued Mrs. Parrish. "She has so many virtues that typify the real American girl."

ANCIENT INDIAN AN INVETERATE SMOKER

Smithsonian Institution Finds Proof In Ruins Of Mesa Verde

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 — The Smithsonian Institution has discovered that ancient Indians who lived hundreds of years ago in that part of the west which we now call Colorado were inveterate pipe-smokers.

Dr. J. Walter Fewkes, chief of the Bureau of American Ethnology of the institution, has returned to Washington after several months of archaeological field work in the Mesa Verde National Park, with reports of a prehistoric ruin to which he has given the name of "Pipe Shrine House," on account of the large number of tobacco pipes found.

Congress passed a law several years ago reserving the Mesa Verde Park from settlement because of the numerous cliff dwellings in its canyon. Since that time archaeologists have discovered that there are as many pueblos in the open on top of the Mesa as in the cliffs. In May of this year Dr. Fewkes undertook work on a mound in the neighborhood of a reservoir called Mummu Lake

"The results of his excavations were as instructive as they were unexpected," says the Smithsonian institution "Out of this mound has emerged a rectangular building about seventy feet square and one story high, accurately oriented to the cardinal points, with a circular tower formerly fifteen to twenty feet high, like a church steeple, midway of the western wall This tower is supposed to have been for observation, and as it is very important for an agricultural people to determine the seasons of the year, it was probably by watching the sun as it rises in the east or sets in the west that they determined the time for planting and other events

"In the middle of this building there was found a circular room twenty feet deep and about the same in diameter, in which were found over a dozen clay tobacco pipes, numerous stone knives, pottery, idols and other objects

"Pipes of this kind have never before been found in the Mesa Verde National Park, and as all the indications point to the belief that after the rite of smoking they were thrown into the shrine the ruins were called on this account the Pipe Shrine House

"A few feet south of the building, which was not a habitation, but specialized for ceremonials, there is a square room or shrine dedicated to the mountain lion, a stone image of which was found surrounded by water-worn and other strangely-formed stones

"The cemeteries of the Pueblos of the Mesa Verde are situated near the southeast corner, and while the burials in them have as a rule been removed by vandals, several interments were found in the cemetery near the Pipe Shrine House"

Do We Inhabit Other Worlds While Asleep?

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 17—That there is a shifting of the consciousness of every human being during sleep, from the objective world to the subjective realms of thought and feeling, is the claim made here in an address by L W. Rogers, president of the American Theosophical Society.

Citations were made by President Rogers in support of his declaration that during sleep living persons communicated with persons who had died.

Psychology, he asserted, cannot explain the considerable amount of evidence of consciousness after death

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally That Nobody Can Tell

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

GIBSON STORY IS CORROBORATED BY NEWEST EVIDENCE

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 17. — Further corroboration of the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, self-claimed eye witness of the murder of Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. James Mills, has been received.

Detectives have located the wagon which Mrs. Gibson was following on the night of September 14 when she saw the tragedy enacted on the old Phillips farm and also the driver.

The driver, however, denies that he was out on the night in question. He was summoned to the office of Prosecuting Attorney A. M. Beekman yesterday afternoon to tell his story again, and to refresh his memory as to his movements on September 14.

In her original version, Mrs Gibson said she had been missing things from her farm and that on the night of September 14 she saw a wagon drive away, which she thot contained stuff stolen from her.

Mrs. Gibson mounted her mule Jenny and followed the wagon thru Drusey lane. The wagon continued on its way thru New Brunswick and Mrs. Gibson's attention was attracted by two motor cars and by a woman in a gray coat and a man who were crossing a field on the Phillips farm.

Mrs. Gibson told of hearing loud words followed by shots, she fled but returned later to see a woman bending over the prostrate form of the slain couple.

The mystery homestead—the old house on the Phillips farm—was again the object of a search by detectives today The owner, John Levine, said the place had been vacant since last June but there were indications that it had been occupied since then One theory was that the clergyman and Mrs Mills used the house as a meeting place

It was learned that bills for electric light and gas used at the Phillips farm house were paid every month up to a short time before the murder.

Deputy Attorney General Wilbur A. Mott, in charge of the investigation, is marking time for the present. He is all ready to present his case to the Somerset-co grand jury when it meets Monday.

Father and Son Both Restored By Tanlac

"Tanlac certainly gives a lot for the money," said W E. Reese, well-known grocer of 313 N College St., Carlisle, Pa.

"Following a bad case of flu I found myself in such a weak, nervous, run-down condition I could hardly attend to business I was in this shape a year and could make no headway towards getting back my strength My stomach was all out of order I had no appetite, and weighed only a hundred and twenty-two pounds.

"A few bottles of Tanlac gave me complete health with a gain of thirteen pounds. I also have a twelve-year-old son in school who had a nervous trouble and was in very bad shape. Soon after starting him on Tanlac his troubles disappeared and he also gained ten or twelve pounds. Tanlac certainly gives the desired results."

Irish Patriot Known As "The Bard" Dead

DUBLIN, Nov. 17—John R. Sullivan, popularly known amongst his old Fenian friends throughout the world as the "Bard," is dead.

He was one of the most prominent figures in the Land War of the 80s, and in 1891 he was tried at Nenagh before Mr. Justice O'Brien (Peter the Packer) on charges of conspiracy. Two sentences of 14 years penal servitude were passed. As he turned to leave the dock he cried out "God save Ireland." Thereupon the judge called him back and imposed another sentence of a further 14 years. The "Bard" served 13 years. In later years he succeeded in getting restored the fame from which he was evicted.

MICHIGAN WOMAN BELIEVED CENTER OF POISON RING

WHITE CLOUD, Mich., Nov. 17 —The prosecution today was preparing to prove that Mrs Alice Dudgeon, charged with slaying Romie Hodell, her son-in-law, was the scheming center of a poison ring in her own family, the first victim of which was Romie Hodell's aged father, David Hodell, for whose murder Mrs. Meda Hodell 20 years old, daughter of Mrs. Dudgeon, was convicted two weeks ago.

This startling new angle in what heretofore was an alleged brutal assault by a rolling pin as Romie Hodell lay sleeping on a couch in the Dudgeon farm house was developed by the announcement of Dr Charles L. Bliss, state chemist, that an examination of the remains of Romie Hodell revealed poison in the viscera.

Mrs. Meda Hodell was recently convicted of the murder of David Hodell, in whose coffee she was alleged to have put poison.

David Hodell died in February last and in less than three months later, Romie Hodell was found hanging in the barn on the Dudgeon farm, a suicide, according to his wife's family. Later a suspicion developed that Romie had been murdered and alleged confessions were obtained from the Dudgeons that Mrs Alice Dudgeon and Meda had hit him with a rolling pin while he slept, and two sons of Mrs Dudgeon, Leo and Herman—had hung him in the barn to give the appearance of suicide

SUN ACCUSED OF A RUSS-GERMAN PLOT

Chinese Leader Admits Seeking Co-operation, But Denies "Alliance" Charge

By EDNA LEE BOOKER

SHANGHAI, Nov. 17—Alleging that Dr. Sun Yat Sen was striving to effect an alliance of China with Germany and the Moscow Soviet government of Russia, the Hong Kong Telegraph has startled political China by its sensational charges.

According to the Hong Kong paper, documents that reveal the purpose of the Southern Leader were found in a safe following Sun's flight from Canton after the revolt against him by the forces of General Chen Chiung-ming.

In a formal written statement, Dr. Sun has answered the blast directed against him

The following is from a recent issue of the Telegraph:

"It has long since been charged against Sun Yat Sen that he has embraced Bolshevist doctrines. Up until now there has been lack of concrete proof, but today we are able to publish what we know to be irrefutable evidence that Sun has been conspiring to bring about an alliance between China, Germany and Russia, based on Bolshevist ideas.

"When Sun Yat Sen and his officials fled from their homes on the night of General Chen's coup in Canton the vice-minister of finance left behind a safe. In the safe were discovered certain letters, one being in Sun's own handwriting, proving that negotiations were then being carried on to bring about the alliance already referred to. We have taken every step to ensure that they are genuine before giving them publicity.

"From the translations it is revealed that the leading spirits in this movement are Sun and Admiral von Hintze, the present German minister to Moscow and who was formerly German minister to Peking. The correspondence shows that Sun and von Hintze were arranging to establish a bureau in Canton which was to be the headquarters for Bolshevik agents who were to be sent to China"

In replying to the charges Dr. Sun says:

"Dr. Sun believes that China, at her present stage of modernization, stands in great need of assistance from powers who will treat and deal with her as an equal and a full sovereign state He believes that Germany and Russia are now so circumstanced and governed that China can treat with them on terms of equality. He is, therefore, in favor of a policy looking toward a closer rapproachment with those two powers. He does not consider such a policy would militate against the legitimate interests of any power that desires a strong and united China . . . He might be dubbed pro-German or pro-Bolshevik Those epithets of hate and revenge have no terrors for him.

Regarding the charges that Sun contemplated Bolshevism in China he states:

"Dr Sun says that the allegation is foolish, because no one can really believe that there exists in China the same historical and economic conditions which have produced the sequence of events in Russia known as Bolshevism The statement is false. . . ."

A glance at his writings will show that he holds very strongly that effective development and use of China's incalculable resources necessitates the co-operation of foreign capital and foreign technical assistance. He has made repeated offers for such co-operation in American, British and other quarters.

THE DORT SIX IS HERE

On display for the first time tomorrow at the salesrooms of Irven Layman, local Dort distributors, these new models are the answer of the Dort Motor Car Company to the demand for a popular priced six cylinder car that will combine the advantage of low operating cost with the attributes of exceptional performance, stamina and beauty.

The company's announcement of this compelling family of new models in the less-than-one-thousand-dollar class lays unusual stress on the car's operating economy and roadworthy response to demands for power and speed

As a result of 18 months of exhaustive tests under the greatest diversity of conditions, the Dort Motor Car Company has advised distributors that the new Dort Six, by virtue of its advanced motor design will maintain in high gear the remarkably wide speed range from two to sixty miles an hour; will accelerate on level highway from five to twenty-five miles an hour in nine seconds, and will traverse twenty-four miles on one gallon of gasoline.

Dort engineers attribute this unusual economy and performance to several outstanding new features of the Dort Six 45 horse-power motor Important among these contributions to power and conservation are:

1—Force feed lubrication not only to all the customary parts, but also to the valve mechanism in order to decrease friction and diminish the possibility of wear.

2—Oil pressure regulation, which, being connected directly with the throttle, increases and decreases the flow of oil in proportion to the load imposed on the motor, but independent of speed

3—Running balance as well as static balance of the crankshaft to eliminate vibration at all speeds

4—Valves of Silcrome steel which will not warp and allow waste of energy.

5—New Dort intake manifold which insures pulling power at low speed in sand and mud or on hills

A Change In Method

THE Congress elected last week, will, constitutionally, come into being on March 4, but, unless convened in extraordinary session by call of the President, it will not meet until December, 1923, or more than a year after the election.

This long interval was devised by the founders of our Government in their "safety first" mood of checks and balances. Obviously, no principle of government is involved. It was simply a matter of method. The circumstances of the time may have measurably justified it. Such justification has long since disappeared. The delay now is not only irksome but seriously obstructive.

Consider the pressing facts of the moment. The people have indignantly discharged the present Congress. They are thoroly dissatisfied with it and with what it has done. The Congress-elect has, in effect, been instructed to undo the mischief of the present Congress. Relief is demanded from oppressive material and moral burdens, not a year from now, but now. The Congress-elect is, palpably, better equipped for the task. The present Congress, repudiated and bewildered, must destroy its own works, in which it has taken so much pride, or it must ignore the people's peremptory mandate. Its situation is difficult and embarrassing. Immediate release from office should be as welcome to the rejected Congress as to the dissatisfied, impatient public.

Plainly, the Congress elected in November should at once assume office. In using the term Congress we are speaking of the House. The constitutional organization of the Senate, which provides for the election of one-third of its membership every two years, so that two-thirds of the body continuously holds over, is seemingly a sufficient check against any unconsidered legislation which the House, fresh from the people, might impulsively attempt. On the other hand, the present interval between the election and the assumption of office by the House militates against the public's wishes. The delay dulls the edge of the popular verdict and in many instances chills the new Congressman's responsiveness to his constituency.

The proposed change would require a constitutional amendment, probably, tho some have held it could be compassed by act of Congress. In either event, let us repeat, no fundamental would be affected. We should be adopting twentieth-century methods for twentieth-century needs. Were the practical, hard-headed founding fathers alive today they would, we are sure, earnestly advocate the change.

Government By Seniority

FOR many years the reactionary forces in the United States senate have held fast to the seniority rule in awarding committee chairmanships despite the protests of all classes of constituents. Now with the prospect of such rank outsiders as Borah and La Follette assuming some of the most important posts at the senate's disposal the word has gone out that the seniority rule must go.

While the senate leaders responsible for the proposed change do not admit it, the above is the underlying reason for the change. For years past really valid reasons have been advanced for making this change, but it is doubtful if, when the senate convenes next week, the change is really made. In discussing editorially the situation The New York World says:

> It was seniority that made Joseph W. Fordney Chairman of the House Committee on Ways and Means.
> It was seniority that made Porter J. McCumber Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.
> It was seniority that made Henry Cabot Lodge Chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.
> Not even a standpat House would by any deliberate action of its own have put Mr. Fordney in charge of the business of making a tariff. Nor would an Old Guard Senate or any other kind of Senate have entrusted to Mr. McCumber the task of rewriting a Tariff Bill that Mr. Fordney had framed. The instinct of self-preservation alone would have been sufficient to prevent those particular blunders.
> All of this gives point to Senator McCormick's letter to Senator Lodge urging that the seniority rule be abandoned. In view of the precarious hold that Lodge has on his own tenure of office, the McCormick letter might seem to have been written in a spirit of satire; yet there is nothing to indicate that the Senator from Illinois at the time he advanced this suggestion, which was not made public until after election, expected that normalcy would be rebuked at the polls and the Old Guard practically unhorsed.
> Fordney will not be a member of the Sixty-eighth Congress, neither will McCumber, and Lodge is hanging on by his eyelids; but as the committees stand under the seniority rule a still more complicated situation will develop. Smoot, an ardent supporter of the Fordney-McCumber tariff, will be Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, but the next ranking Republican member is La Follette, who made his campaign against the tariff and is opposed to nearly every policy of the Harding Administration.
> Assuming that Lodge manages to crawl thru in the Massachusetts recount, the next ranking Republican member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations is Borah, who is hardly less opposed to the foreign policy of the Harding Administration than he was to the foreign policy of the Wilson Administration.
> By this same process La Follette is subordinate only to Cummins on the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, and by the seniority rule Graham of Pennsylvania, a pronounced wet, will succeed Volstead as Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, the committee that framed the Prohibition Enforcement Act.
> The political inconsistencies that result from the seniority rule are innumerable, and apart from the inconsistencies is the reign of mediocrity that results. The most stupid individual in the country, if elected to the House or Senate and kept there long enough by a backward constituency, will inevitably become Chairman of the most important committee that he happens to covet. All he need do is be re-elected and keep alive.
> Senator McCormick's arguments against the seniority rule are all sound, but it is safe to say that there will be no change when Congress meets. The radical Republicans now have the balance of power, and once the seniority rule were abandoned the Republican leaders would be adrift. Senator McCormick might as well ask them to cut their own throats and be done with it.
> Nevertheless, the seniority rule will eventually be abandoned in both branches of Congress and ability will be recognized as at least the equal of length of service in matters of legislation. Before that comes about, however, there will be a change in the White House and a formal recognition of the President's responsibility for Congress as the leader of the majority party. It can never be done under the Harding theory that "government, after all, is a very simple matter."
> Under a really responsible Government the Chairmen of the important committees of the House and Senate must necessarily be men, regardless of seniority, who are actively in sympathy with White House policies and who are prepared to stand or fall with the Administration's program.

New York Day-by-Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov 17—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Nothing looks so out of place in New York as a hunter and his hounds. A stooped venerable leaves a mansion wearing a bright shawl. Smacks of mystery. Probably dyspepsia. The surge of trade in the haunt of aristocracy. Boot shops. Richly colored objects d'art. And perfumery parlors

There's George Barr McCutcheon. A rectory garden. And a jazz band playing across the square. Cheerful hearth-fires Slippered Chines servants. Audacious French maids. Every home has a porte cochere. And brass door knocker. And I imagine a nifty cellar.

Wonder if millionaires are really happy. There's nerve—a bust of Von Hindenburg in a window. A novelty store called "The Flapper Shop." But not a flapper in sight. They call 'em "Jelly Beans" now. An assembly hall with crowds waiting for Isadora Duncan and her husband.

From riches to sudden squalor. Raggedy side streets with mean shop fronts. Only the movie houses are spangled with light. And they advertise in English and Yiddish. A blubbering child shivering in the wind. Dirty and carpetless rooms Weary, life scarred mothers.

The bus top looks inviting. That's Pierre Key, the music critic, in the front seat. All the bus riders appear to be reading gloomy books. Books that perdict war and the wiping out of civilization. Is civilization becoming a Frankenstein to destroy its creators? I gotta cut out eating heavy luncheons. They gloom me all up.

There's a laugh! A fat man chasing his hat. It never ceases to be funny He got it And is very red. Andrew Carnegie's home seems ghostly empty. Once I was with a man who nearly ran him down. And the steel king waved good-naturedly. An exhibition of Cubist and Futurist things. Intellectual sterility.

The Plaza ablaze with light. The avenue st off for Florida. Nobody ever stays at home any more. Here's my stop.

"I always used to be known as 'Dana's wife.' Now I am Nannie's sister."

The Woolworth Building is right on the fringe of the Fulton Street "deadline" for crooks. A special squad of plain-clothes men have been stationed in the vicinity to watch out for pick-pockets. While wide-eyed visitors are freckling their tonsils gazing at the amazing sky-scraper, the leather lifters find the work of going through their pockets easy. More than ten thousand dollars was netted in a week's haul lately and not a single dip was nabbed.

Clare Briggs, the cartoonist, from the middle of Mrs. Atlantic's ocean wirelesses a friend: "I just gave three rousing whoops for you at the ship rail."

A street walker, with an illicit question on her painted lips, stood in the shadows of a street running off Broadway in the Forties. From across the street came the soft evening song of a church choir. She walked over and up several steps—halted uncertainly and then suddenly rushed away. I am wondering what might have happened had there, by chance, been someone at the door of the church to invite her in.

Here is wisdom in a Want Ad: "Cook in suburban community; movies and handsome police force."

WALT MASON

BOOK REVIEWS

The book reviewers of these days—the ones most widely known—hand out the savage, brutal phrase that makes an author groan They jump upon a tawdry book with frenzied shriek and curse, and if the author were a crook they couldn't treat him worse. They fume and fuss and rant and rail in anger and disdain; it's worse to write a cheap-john tale than 'tis to rob a train. And yet, while critics raise their din, the cheap books hit the spot; I hold it is no downright sin to write some tommyrot. Where one admires the searching yarn dissecting human souls, a thousand read "The Haunted Barn" and kindred rigmaroles. And shall the eager thousand burn the books they most enjoy, because some critic, pale and stern, that hogwash may annoy? And shall the man who earns his bread by writing red blood dope be crushed by what some critic said, and say farewell to hope? Why should the savage critics cook the lowbrow Mike or Pete? A man may write a jim crow book, and still be good as wheat

PEOPLE'S FORUM

EARLY TAXATION

Editor The Tribune:

Archaeologists have found evidences of crude forms of raising revenue existing many thousands of years ago in Sumar and later in Babylonia and Egypt.

These early schemes for obtaining public revenue were usually a form of rent and rested on the assumption that the king or overlord owned the land and charged the tiller of the soil rent for the use of it which was ordinarily paid in produce, that is, a share of the crop was annually turned over to the landlord in satisfaction of the rent charge; and, while this might well be treated as a form of tax it does not, however, directly coincide with the present day conception of tax as a rate or duty on property or income, which ordinarily assumes ownership on the part of the person paying the tax while rent is usually a more direct charge against labor or use. It may with great propriety be said, however, that all taxes in whatever form and however collected are in reality ultimately paid by labor tho in form they may generally be paid by property.

Historically it may be of significance to observe that of the various methods of raising revenue for more or less public uses, an income tax (tithe) is among the earliest on record.

1913 years before the christian era Abraham on his return from his expedition against the five kings gave a tenth part of all the spoils to Melchizedek king of Salem. (Genesis 14. 20 and Hebrews 7. 4).

From that remote time on it seems gradually to have become the established custom among the Jews to treat the tenth part of the yearly increase arising from their flocks and herds and the tilling of their fields as due to their rulers or priests (Deu. 14, 22, 28) for by 1451 before Christ, Moses had included tithing as a part of the divine service.

Like some other plans of taxation the Jewish system of tithing (standing alone) seems to have failed to take into consideration that he whose increase was small since he had to maintain himself out of his income, however small it might be, was relatively harder hit by paying the tenth part of it to the priest than was the individual of larger means.—so partly for the purpose of checking this cause for the rich becoming richer and the poor remaining poor we find another provision in the economy of Moses providing that in each fiftieth year (the year of jubilee), the lands and houses were to be given back into the possession of those who had sold them or to their kin and usury was forbidden. (Lev. 25, 24. 29. 36)—a provision we can scarcely think was popular with the holders of "predatory" wealth in the time of Moses, and which probably thru the machinations of themselves or their successors is now wholly ignored or forgotten.

Later the Romans had their system of "Farming out" the revenues whereby at intervals, usually every fifth year, the privilege of collecting the taxes was sold to the highest bidder much in the same way that the building of public works is now sold out to private persons. This system was inherently productive of gross fraud and corruption.

In passing the writer will state that he has never seen the claim made anywhere, but he is willing to assert on his own initiative that the Jews probably worked out the most equitable scheme of taxation and economics to be found in all the annals of antiquity, and with some alterations going more to the form than the substance to be made in view of present and future conditions, it is my humble opinion that this Jewish plan here referred to might well be ultimately accepted and put in force thruout the fairest parts of the earth and the most highly cultivated and civilized portion of mankind.

This completes my survey of the earlier taxation and my next letter will treat of more recent matters relating to the subject.

We all dislike self-satisfied persons—is it because they don't care for our approbation?

It is better to fail in the next attempt than to fold your hands after an achievement.

Try to be happy in this very present moment, and put not off being so to a time to come.

There are few things reason can discover with so much certainty and ease as its own insufficiency.

If a rich man is proud of his wealth, he should not be praised until it is known how he employs it.

Wedding Day Tragedy Grips In "SMILIN' THROUGH."

The killing of a bride on her wedding day provides just one of a score of big dramatic moments in Allan Langdon Martins remarkable play "Smilin' Through" which the Chicago Stock Company will elaborately produce at the Sixth Street theatre next Monday evening as the opening attraction of their week's engagement.

Moonyeen and John Carteret are being married when Jeremiah Wayne, a rejected suitor, shouts "Stop! and levels a revolver at John. Moonyeen rushed forward to protect John and receives the bullet intended for him. As John sees that she is dying he orders the minister to complete the ceremony, and it is done.

In the ensuing years John's only happiness lies in the memory of his beloved Moonyeen and the love of his niece Kathleen, who has been left in his charge; but he becomes furious when Kathleen introduces him to young Kenneth Wayne, son of Jeremiah, as her lover. The dramatic plot expands around the romance of this young couple and the part which the earlier tragedy plays in it.

Manager RossKam of the Chicago Stock Company takes great pride in presenting to his patrons this season Miss Jean White the late star of "Turn To The Right" and "East Is West" who will portray in the leading feminine roles and in "Smilin' Through" will enact the role made famous by Miss Jane Cowl. Miss White will be seen as Moonyeen, girl of yesterday and as Kathleen girl of today. In romance and tragedy, in drama: in sweetest love, she comes Smilin' Through the gates of gladness in this famous wonder play.

Seats for Monday evening will be placed on sale at the Sixth Street box office Saturday A. M. Reserved seats for the entire engagement.

NO OLD WOMEN NOWADAYS

Modern dress, hair dressers, facial experts and cosmetics all combine to keep women of all ages young and attractive in appearance. Not until the telltale wrinkles become so deep, the figure droops, or some ailment or weakness develops to drag a woman down does she really look her age.

Every woman owes it to herself and her family to keep herself young in appearance, and happy. When headaches, backache or "the blues" develop or when a woman reaches the trying age from forty-five to fifty, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be depended upon to keep her in health as it has so many other women whose letters we are continually publishing in this paper.

Prove splendid laxative properties of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin by test

A SCIENTIFIC test has now proven what Dr. Caldwell of Monticello asserted many years ago, that constipation will slow you up fully 25 per cent. The test was made by Dr. Donaldson of Loma Linda upon four men in the prime of life who deliberately went without a bowel movement for four days. Within 48 hours the men had coated tongue and foul breath, cankers in the mouth, no appetite, restless sleep, indigestion, headache, depression, nervousness, cramps. The blood pressure was up 28 per cent. It is just this that Dr. Caldwell has preached to his patients in private and to the public through the printed word ever since he began the practice of his specialty, diseases of the stomach and bowels, back in 1875.

After observing for years the satisfactory effect of his prescription for constipation, he placed it in drug stores in 1892, a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. That was 30 years ago, and today over 10 million bottles are bought annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world. You will find it in any drug store you enter, a generous-size bottle costing you less than a cent a dose.

Every member of the family from the infants to the grandparents can use it with safety. It is gentle and mild. The formula is on the package. Mrs. Roy Cook of Bellefontaine, O., has been giving it to her 5-months old baby, who now weighs 19 pounds; and Mr. J. B. Dawson of Brinson, Ga., declares it the best laxative his family has ever found. Try a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for constipation or any of its symptoms. The results will delight you. And the cost is only one cent a dose.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

Buckeye Breveties

Gathered by I. N. S.

LIMA, Nov. 17 — Eugene T. Lippincott, prosecuting attorney, has announced he will contest transfer of Otis Hines, 42, negro railroad cook, formerly of Cincinnati, to another county for trial. Hines is charged with second degree murder in connection with the slaying of Robert Halloran, 19, last October. Contention that Hines cannot obtain a fair and impartial trial is the basis for the motion for a change of venue.

NELSONVILLE, Nov. 17. — Business men and other observers in the Hocking valley claim that coal cars, that should be sent into this field, are being diverted to other, and long distant, points. Some of the important local carriers are owned by lines having interests in other states, it is said. It is charged that local mines are able to market more coal quickly with the equipment that is sent elsewhere, than can the mines that receive them and that the public suffers because there is no suitable supervision of the distribution of the car supply.

HAMDEN, Nov. 17. — School men of Vinton county have been holding conferences in an effort to solve the county's school problems. It is stated that there is a decided shortage of school teachers in Vinton county.

McARTHUR, Nov. 17 — Game protectors from this district made a raid into Athens county and arrested three brothers who were charged with hunting fur out of season. The game wardens said that they found 14 skunk pelts in the possession of the brothers. Their fines were about $50 each.

POMEROY, Nov. 17. — Walter Keeter was arrested here on a nonsupport charge, made by his young wife. The Keeters have two children. One child is a year old and the other about three months.

MIDDLEPORT, Nov. 17. — Mrs. Sarah Cummings, 82, active until the end of her long life, died suddenly while working in the kitchen of her farm home near here. She was preparing the noon day meal for the rest of the family.

ELYRIA, Nov. 17. — The Canton lodge will present a diamond pin this evening at the Elks hall to A. E. Lord in recognition of his 52 years as a member of the local Odd Fellows lodge. The G. A. R. comrades of the honored guest will also be guests of honor.

DEFIANCE, Nov. 17. — Dr. A. E Smith of Ada, president of Ohio Northern University, speaking at the 50th anniversary of the dedication of the present St. Paul's M. E. church building here, said he longs to write a new national hymn, expressing appreciation of America's unselfishness, America's greatness and America's devotion to God. These are the traits, he argued, which make up the proper national spirit.

WOOSTER, Nov. 17. — John Baker, 14, had a bullet removed from his left wrist, the season's first "hunting accident" in Wayne county. Baker and two companions went out in the fields to see if they could "locate" some rabbits in order to know just where to find them when the season opened. They took a 22-calibre rifle along. While the boys were sitting on a log resting, the gun was discharged, the ball entering the lad's wrist.

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 17—A most novel theft resulted in warrants being issued for members of three Lansing families, charging them with mining coal belonging to the Lorain Coal & Dock Co.

Officers of the company last spring suspected that coal was being taken out of the hillside. A six months' search was made to determine where the entry into the Pittsburgh No 8 vein of coal had been made. Until a few days ago no signs of an opening about the company's large acreage could be found.

Finally, John E. Moore, policeman for the company, found mining tools concealed in weeds in a ravine only a short distance from the National road, completely out of sight. He discovered an opening, not more than six feet square, leading to the coal vein. It was timbered to prevent a cavein and was covered as carefully as is a moonshine still in the mountains of West Virginia.

Moore secreted himself among the brambles that surrounded the opening and waited. After several hours, the head of one of the families which had been obtaining its fuel there, he chrages, appeared and was about to begin work when he was arrested. Moore also, found a woman and a boy, members of another family, at work. Questions led to others becoming involved. An engineer is checking up to determine the value of the coal taken.

MEDINA, Nov 17 — Veterinaries of Norwalk, Sandusky, Canton, Jeromesville, Shreve, Gates Mill, Mansfield, Elyria, Lakewood, Cleveland, Akron, Ashland and Columbus attended the North Central Ohio Veterinary Medical Association's convention here. The sessions were marked by discussions and clinics. The next session will be held in June at Akron.

POMEROY, Nov. 17.—A splendid granite monument has just been erected in Beech Grove Cemetery here to the memory of the late Charles H. Lyman, by the Ohio grand lodge of Odd Fellows. For 28 years Mr Lyman was state secretary of this order.

ASHLAND, Nov. 17. — Ralph Keen, 19, Albion, died from injuries sustained when the auto in which he was riding turned over three times near West Salem. Alva Jelley, who was with Keen, is in a serious condition.

ATHENS, Nov. 17.—Figures, just gathered from contractors and building material men, show that in the past 18 months more than $1,000,000 has been expended in construction work here. In that time more than 100 residences were built. Many more are under way. About $500,000 worth of work, including the Ohio university gymnasium, is about to start.

MARTINS FERRY, Nov. 17.—A special train will carry high school football fans to Alliance Saturday to see the Martins Ferry-Alliance high school game. More than 400 made a similar trip to Fostoria Oct. 21.

BUCYRUS, Nov 17.—Clarence U Ahl, city solicitor, who has just been elected prosecuting attorney of Crawford county, intends to resign the city office to enter upon his new duties January 1. This will leave the city solicitorship vacant as Mr. Ahl had until January 1, 1924, to serve as city solicitor. The appointment of his successor rests with Mayor Charles F Picking, a Republican. Ahl was elected by the Democrats.

SHADYSIDE, Nov. 17.—The 700 employes of the Webb mine, the largest in Ohio, are on strike, due to a peculiar siuation. The men claimed that 34 cars of coal were wrecked in the mine. The company refused to pay the loaders for the spilled coal. The men quit work as a result. Benjamin Rose of this place was slightly hurt when the cars were derailed in an entry. The loaders receive pay for the coal based on weights obtained when it is weighed on a tipple outside the mine. Because this coal had not been weighed, it is claimed, proper credit was impossible.

DEFIANCE, Nov. 17. — Mrs Mamie T. Ensign, chairman of Defiance county W. C. T. U. will represent Fulton, Williams, Paulding, Henry and Defiance counties at the world and national W. C. T. U. conventions to be held in Philadelphia Nov. 9-16.

LIMA, Nov. 17.—Planting of an avenue of trees on the West street road, in honor of American soldiers who died in the world war, will open a two days' session of the Northwest Ohio district meeting of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs here today.

The avenue will be named "The Road of Remembrance." It will begin at a point marked by the south entrance to the Lima state hospital and extend one mile north.

Mrs. Judson Pierce, Toledo, is vice president of the district and will preside at all the sessions. Speakers of prominence will include. Mrs. Cornelius Selover, Cleveland; Mrs. Edith M. Patterson, Dayton; Mrs. John H. Berry, Athens; Mrs. James W. Fleming, Cleveland; Mrs. Charles Fox, Cincinnati; Mrs. Robert Morris, Mrs Prentice Rood and Mrs Judson Pierce, all of Toledo; Mrs. J. E. Clark, Columbus.

M'ARTHUR, Nov. 17.—The last four miles of the state highway between Wellston and Gallipolis will be finished next year, it is learned here. This will mean an all-year outlet to Columbus and central Ohio for thousands of motorists from Gallia and Lawrence counties.

ATHENS, Nov. 17.—Seven Dutch Ridge farmers were taken into court here on the charge of hunting rabbits several days before the season opened. Five pleaded guilty. Each was fined $25 and costs. Two will stand trial. It is said that they started out to kill game on their own farms and those of their neighbors before the other hunters got a good start.

ELYRIA, Nov. 17.—Harry Mc Donald, arrested at Sandusky, was bound over to the grand jury under $500 bond on the charge of passing a worthless check for $80 on C. C Bowers, druggist. Police said he passed similiar checks on several other Elyria merchants and is wanted in Kingsville, Ontario, where it is claimed, he passed fraudulent checks.

ELYRIA, Nov 17.—The new telephone directory shows 4,400 phone users and indicates that the population of the city has been increased to 22,000, a gain of over 1,000 since the 1920 decennial census.

ELYRIA, Nov 17.—Mike Petalovich, Amherst, denied a new trial after being found guilty of cutting to kill, was sentenced to serve three months in the Toledo work house.

STEEL INDUSTRY IS CONDUCTED AT LOSS, GARY SAYS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. — Severe and unreasonable competition has resulted in the steel business being now conducted at a loss, members of the Federal Trade Commission were informed yesterday by Judge E H Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the U. S Steel Corporation.

"The steel business is being conducted at a loss, because it is a buyer's market and not a seller's market" he said.

Judge Gary today wound up his testimony before the commission which is delving into the practice of the Pittsburgh base system of selling steel.

Charles M. Schwab will appear today.

"The steel business," Judge Gary said, "has been conducted virtually at a loss since the middle of 1920. During the war, "he said," the government stabilized prices and there was prosperity but by the middle of 1920 the business became demoralized, competition became ruthless and the buyers are still taking advantage of this condition."

The Gary remedy for all business and industrial ills he said was: "Full, fair and earnest publicity, which reaches the public mind and results in proper adjustments." Judge Gary said he personally did not favor any rule of business not in harmony with that principle.

"DON'T GET UP NIGHTS ANYMORE"

Indiana Manufacturer Suffered with Bladder Trouble for Years., Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) Made Him Well.

No one need suffer the pain and annoyance of bladder trouble, getting up many times each night. C. F. Melcher, Vevay, Ind., manufacturer, says: "I took Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) in April and have been waiting until August to see if the good results were going to be permanent. I am confident I am all O. K. In fact, I feel as well as ever. Before I took Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) I had to get up two to four times every hour at night and was bothered nearly as much in daytime. It got so bad I could not go any place to visit or work, for I had no control of my bladder. I am all right now and have no trouble at all. I will be glad to tell any sufferer what Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) did for me."

Sufferers from bladder trouble will be surprised at the impurities passed after a few doses of Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula). These impurities cause the bladder trouble. This is not a patent medicine. The formula is printed on the package. It acts on the kidneys and bladder similarly as do Epsom Salts on the bowels. Try a few doses for frequent desire at night, scalding, scanty or high-colored urine. Lithiated Buchu tablets (Keller formula) is not a cheap medicine. They cost 2c each and contain several drugs which are useful for relief of this trouble. Learn all about Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) at Smith Drug & Book Stores, Wimmer Arnold Co., J. M. ## What Lillian and Madge Did to "Handle" Dr. Pettit.

LILLIAN'S flank movement was successful. We reached the car before Dr. Pettit's long strides caught up with us.

"Start your motor," she whispered, "before you speak to him."

I obeyed, and the whir of the engine was much softer than the physician's voice when he reached the side of the car.

"Have you seen this?" he demanded, holding up before my eyes the paper which had contained the fantastic account of Dicky's escapade with Claire Foster.

It took all my will power to keep from striking the hateful thing out of his hands. But a look at the physician's white, set face and blazing eyes steadied me. He was in a mood which needed no label to be recognized as distinctly dangerous.

"Yes, I have seen it," I returned, making my voice as careless as possible. "Horrid twist to give an ordinary accident, isn't it? I shall advise my husband to thrash the man who wrote it if he isn't too big"

"You—you—" The physician's voice was thick with astonishment and rage. "Are you treating this as a joke?"

"I hope I still retain possession of my five senses," I returned flippantly, "so I naturally see no reason for treating it as anything else."

I felt Lillian's hand on my arm in an approving little pat, and the touch helped me to face the blazing wrath in Dr. Pettit's eyes.

Dr. Pettit Is Furious.

"Look here," he said in a louder tone, and with a more excited manner than I ever had observed in him before. "If you think you can keep that man from me by this silly, childish talk, you are—"

"Dr. Pettit!" Lillian's tone was a whiplash. "If you have anything further to say to Mrs. Graham, please step into the car, for we are going home immediately. If not, let me give you a word of advice. Melodrama is out of date. Don't make yourself ridiculous by magnifying something which Mrs Graham, the person most concerned, is viewing very sensibly."

He stepped back from the car, and lifted his hat, the grayish pallor on his face deepening.

"If thrashing that scoundrel within an inch of his life will make me ridiculous, I shall be a subject for your mirth at this time tomorrow," he said grimly

"Oh!" I gasped, thoroughly frightened, but Lillian's cutting tone drowned the exclamation.

"I congratulate you on your chivalry. A little proceeding like that ought to make things exceedingly pleasant for Miss Foster. Good-morning. Let's get out of here, Madge."

Lillian's Plan.

Obediently I sent the car away from the curb, but I was so obsessed by the remembrance of the physician's hatred-ridden eyes that as soon as I had turned the corner and was well away from the chance of his seeing me, I drew the car up to the curb, stopped it, and turned on Lillian.

"Do you think he means to go up there?" I asked.

"Of course he does," she returned. "But don't you worry. He'll not get any further than the railroad station Your father and I 'haven't attended Sunday school for nothing.' We'll be able to manage dear little Herbie all right, and he'll never know what happened to him"

I smiled involuntarily at her ridiculous quotation, and my spirits, which had traveled rapidly toward the zero mark at Dr Pettit's threat, began to ascend again. I knew better than to ask how she meant to accomplish the thwarting of the half-crazed man, but that she would effectually prevent his journey to the scene of Dicky's escapade I was certain.

"I'm content to leave everything in your hands," I said, as I started the car again "Where to now?"

"Home," she returned promptly "You'll have to wait there for the afternoon train, and run the gauntlet of the reporters if they come. This Pettit lunatic complicates things a bit, and I want to get your father busy on him pronto Drat the man, anyway! Who would have thought he'd blaze up like a Fourth of July skyrocket?"

She laughed lightly as she spoke, but I knew that Dr Pettit's fantastic performance worried her more than she cared to admit to me.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl 21 years of age, and have a little puzzle I wish you would solve for me if possible. I have been going with a young man of the same age as myself for about fourteen months, and we were engaged to be married. I loved him, and we got along so nicely together making out plans for the future, and he seemed so interested and loved me also.

All of a sudden he changed and lost interest, and commenced to go with other girls, and when I asked him what I had done to cause this he only said nothing, and that he didn't see any harm in going with other girls. He always carried my picture in his watch, and when I saw that he cared less for me I asked him to take the picture out and also the other picture he had of me and return them, but he refused. Then I didn't see him for three months, and found he still had the picture in his watch.

I asked him again about it, and why he persisted in carrying that picture when I wished him not to do so. He said that he was not that kind of a man. I don't feel that it is right to expose my picture when he treated me that way. I believe it is either contrariness on his part or that he does care, and expects to come back to me some day.

He took a position out of this city, but I simply don't understand him when he persists in keeping that picture in his watch all this time, for I saw him and he showed it to me, so I know. I feel sometimes that he only keeps it to make fun of me before other girls.

I am broken-hearted over this trouble. But I am willing to give him up if he would only return my picture and try to forget it. Please advise me soon what I can do.

BROWN EYES.

BROWN EYES: Ask the young man to return your pictures. If he will not do it, ask your mother to request him to send any pictures which he may have of you back to her.

Forget about this young man, who does not make you happy, my dear. He is unworthy of your love or devotion.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a young man for about a year. When he started calling on me I was engaged to another young man, but as I cared for this one more, I refused to marry the other, and I quit writing him.

I became engaged to the young man. He seemed to love me dearly until about a month ago he changed, and has quit calling at my home on Sunday, but he calls on other nights I feel that he has forsaken me for another whom he was going with when I met him, but he told me he had stopped calling on her.

I love this young man dearly, and I can't forget him. Please advise me how to regain his love, or is it better to try to forget him?

LONESOME BROWN EYES.

LONESOME BROWN EYES: I do not think you have much to complain of, my dear, if the fact that your friend neglects to call Sunday is your only grievance. However, if it makes such a difference to you ask him. If he loves you sincerely he will do all in his power to please you But remember, do not be too exacting

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

The Way Elizabeth Fry Brought About Prison Reform.

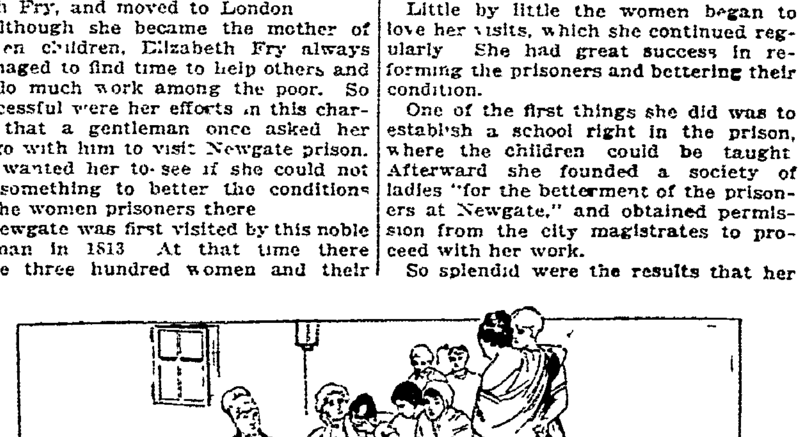
PERHAPS the fact that Elizabeth Fry was born in a Quaker family had a great deal to do with her becoming the great woman she was For in the Society of Friends, commonly called "Quakers," both men and women, rise and speak freely in their meetings when they feel moved to do so.

This fine woman, who was born into the Gurney family of Norwich, Eng., married at twenty, a plain Friend, Joseph Fry, and moved to London

Although she became the mother of eleven children, Elizabeth Fry always managed to find time to help others and to do much work among the poor. So successful were her efforts in this charity that a gentleman once asked her to go with him to visit Newgate prison. He wanted her to see if she could not do something to better the conditions of the women prisoners there

Newgate was first visited by this noble woman in 1813 At that time there were three hundred women and their children huddled in filth and misery in four not large rooms. After a short stay there, the women became—if they were not so already at their commitment—vile, swearing, drinking women. They begged visitors for money, and then sent the guard out for liquor. It was not safe to wear a watch or any jewelry when one entered as a visitor. The women prisoners would steal anything within reach.



She Begged the Women to Be More Gentle and Honorable.

In this prison for women there was no woman to care for them—simply an old man and his son. There were no beds—the women slept like beasts huddled together to keep warm on the stone floor.

It was a terrible scene which Elizabeth Fry saw on this day in January when she first visited Newgate. She never forgot it, and held a hope in her heart that she could one day help the poor wretches who were confined there.

Mrs. Fry was kept very busy by her large family, but at the end of three years, at Christmas-time, she determined to go to Newgate.

She asked permission to be left alone with the women for a few hours. It was easy for her to speak in public, having been accustomed to it in her own religious meetings. Many other women would have lacked the courage

After reading the Bible and explaining as she read, she spoke to the women of the danger of bringing up their children in such a degrading atmosphere, and begged them to be more gentle and honorable.

Little by little the women began to love her visits, which she continued regularly She had great success in reforming the prisoners and bettering their condition.

One of the first things she did was to establish a school right in the prison, where the children could be taught Afterward she founded a society of ladies "for the betterment of the prisoners at Newgate," and obtained permission from the city magistrates to proceed with her work.

So splendid were the results that her fame spread over all England and reached France. There the government asked her to inspect their prisons and to make an official report. Prussia followed France's example, to the extent that when the King of Prussia visited England, one of his first expeditions was to Newgate to hear Mrs. Fry talk to the prisoners.

No criminal was too vile for this wonderful woman to help. On the contrary, she was their only comfort. Touching stories were related of Elizabeth Fry's farewells, as the convict ships sailed away on their cruises of misery to England's penal colonies.

She arranged work for the women on the voyage. They made patchwork quilts to sell when they landed, so that they would not be penniless. Her interest was vitally personal.

Elizabeth Fry became so absorbed in this work that she made a complete study of prison reform, and was the first person to work it out successfully. In doing so, she proved herself one of the finest of real heroines.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

New and Charming Uses for Unbleached Muslin.

UNBLEACHED muslin has certainly come into its own this season From second-class sheeting, it has jumped into the class of a favorite art material There seem to be divers opinions as to how its popularity started, but whatever the primary reason for the vogue of unbleached muslin may have been, the little fudge apron certainly helped matters along.

The fudge apron is still going strong, not only to wear when making candy, but when attending corn-roasts and other similar outdoor functions. The applique work on the apron determines which function it is to grace.

Now, we have the most fascinating tea and luncheon cloths made of unbleached muslin, with colored linen hems turned back on the right side to form a border that is couched or feather-stitched in place with black silk or linen floss. The appliqued motifs are of the linen, finished with the black floss, and are of conventionalized fruit or flowers or just arabesques. Sometimes, two or three other colors are used in the design besides the one that matches the border. The covers are round, square, shaped like a Greek cross or simply made into long runners and shorter cross runners to use under the long ones.

Again, unbleached muslin is used for kitchen curtains, bordered and banded with checked gingham, and with a little ruffled or plain lambrequin at the top as a finish Stenciled borders are also done on the muslin, for curtain use, in colors to match the decorations of the room in which they are to be used. Two other odd fancies are bidding for popularity. One of these is the adding of bands and ruffles of colored organdies in making up the muslin into bedroom curtains. The other is the addition of oilcloth designs, appliqued on the muslin, then piped with colored linen. The effect of this use of oilcloth with the muslin is odd, but rather attractive if the designs are not too big.

For nursery use, an unusual set was made recently of unbleached muslin with a quilted border of linen animals. Before the animals were appliqued in place, a little cotton stuffing was tucked underneath each one to make them set out from the muslin in a rather lifelike manner. Buttons were used for eyes. The result was very effective. The curtains, spread and tablecover were bound with old blue linen in a flat binding one inch wide.

In one modern nursery, done by a prominent interior decorator, there is a frame with muslin stretched on it just as a painter's canvas is fastened, and it is attached to the wall two and a half feet from the floor. This is for the children to paste pictures on. When tired of one set of pictures, they can easily be pulled off, leaving the space clear for new pasted decorations.

Unbleached muslin also appears in the quilted centres of the fashionable patchwork quilts. A great deal of work is being put on these quilts, and in the case of a room with twin beds, there must, of course, be two alike. It is an unwritten law that everything must match in the room where the quilts are used, for nothing else seems to fit in with patchwork. This means that draperies, table and couch covers, scarves and slip-covers must all be made to match the quilt, in the colors of the room. The patchwork of today is no hit-or-miss scramble of odd colors and scraps, for artistic colors, good combinations and new materials are used.

Perhaps for nursery use, there is nothing more popular than the pink hollyhock set. In this set, the flowers grow stiffly on their green linen stems, and their pink linen petals are beautifully sewed in place with floss to match. In the corners of the tablecloth are baskets of cut flowers above a narrow pink border. No ruffles, of course, appear with patchwork. If an old-fashioned cradle is used, the pads at the sides and the lining of the hood are decorated with the same flowers in smaller sizes.

One ambitious woman has experimented in dyeing the muslin, and has achieved some remarkable effects, especially with the new tied, dyed process. The figures and designs in the dyeing she has done have the effect of real batik work.

Panelled lamp shades of muslin, lined with a color and embroidered in black floss, or stenciled with silhouette figures, are new and easy to make. Each section is made separately, then they are joined with ribbon lacing, bound top and bottom with ribbon, and are slipped onto a ribbon-wound wire frame

YOUR HEALTH

Always Make Sure That the Water You Drink Is Pure

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City

DR. COPELAND

UNLESS a community is blessed with a good water supply, it can have little else to commend it. Fine schools and churches, attractive shops and places of entertainment, demand for labor and prospect of worldly success—all these are of little importance unless the water supply is above suspicion.

It is not common now, but it used to be an ordinary experience to read of some community where an epidemic of typhoid fever was raging. In my boyhood and, indeed, at the beginning of my medical practice, typhoid fever was almost as common as diphtheria is today.

Diarrhoeal diseases, cramps, typhoid fever and cholera may be traced to infected water supplies. No community is safe unless there is an abundance of pure water.

When I speak of pure water, I do not mean water free from minerals or necessarily free from color or cloudiness "Pure water" is understood to mean a water free from harmful bacteria and harmful chemicals. It is a water safe for drinking and for cooking purposes.

Polluted water is water contaminated by animal or industrial waste. Such water is unsuited and unsafe for human consumption.

The quality of water depends on its source. Most surface waters are unsafe. This is due to the contamination which takes place from its travels over the earth

Rain water is the purest of all waters if caught in clean vessels. Unfortunately however, it flows over contaminated surfaces and is rarely found in condition to be safely consumed.

Water which comes from the earth is pure or impure, depending on the substances dissolved or suspended in it Such water may carry no harmful bacteria, but may be filled with mineral elements. The quantity of lime, for instance, may be so great that when a little is sprinkled on glass, a white deposit forms where every drop fell

Milkiness and opalescence of water are due to suspended particles of clay or to compounds of iron. Such ingredients are harmless enough for occasional uses of the water, but if turbidity is due to sewage, dead animal or vegetable substance, or to organic matter of any sort, the water is unsafe

The odor of water does not determine its safe or unsafe properties. Many waters of disagreeable smell are safe to drink, and some sparkling and clear waters are dangerous.

A similar rule applies to the taste of water:

All water from open wells must be viewed with suspicion. A nearby cesspool or privy-vault may contaminate the water. The slope of the ground does not settle this question, because the underground flow may not correspond to the surface conditions.

Make sure that the water supply of your household is from a safe source Never drink from an abandoned water supply or from one which is in the least doubtful.

Health and life depend on the daily consumption of large quantities of pure water.

She Chats About a Gayly-Embroidered, Fur-Trimmed Frock for the Tea Hour.

PAM came racing into the manikins' room in the late afternoon when we were all getting into our own things preparatory to going home.

"I have a proposal. Are you ready to accept it and enjoy a pleasant hour or so?" she asked.

I protested that I couldn't promise in such a headlong fashion—that I must know more.

"It's only that we combine finances and give ourselves a Dutch treat of tea at the Ritz," she said.

"That's rather extravagant when I'm saving up for a new hat that's really good," I said.

She must have seen that I was weakening, and I had to admit to myself that the proposition sounded very alluring.

"Oh, come, come," she urged. "You can see enough smart clothes there to give you ideas for a dozen hats."

"It will give me new impetus," I said. "But I wish I'd worn my new dress."

We sailed off and were soon seated at a little corner table, taking much more interest in our surroundings than in our cups of tea.

"Here's the dress for me," Pam whispered as a very stunning woman appeared in the doorway.

"I've hardly had a chance to see the dress, but I do approve of the cane," I answered, as I noticed that the lady in question was leaning lightly on a long Directoire cane.

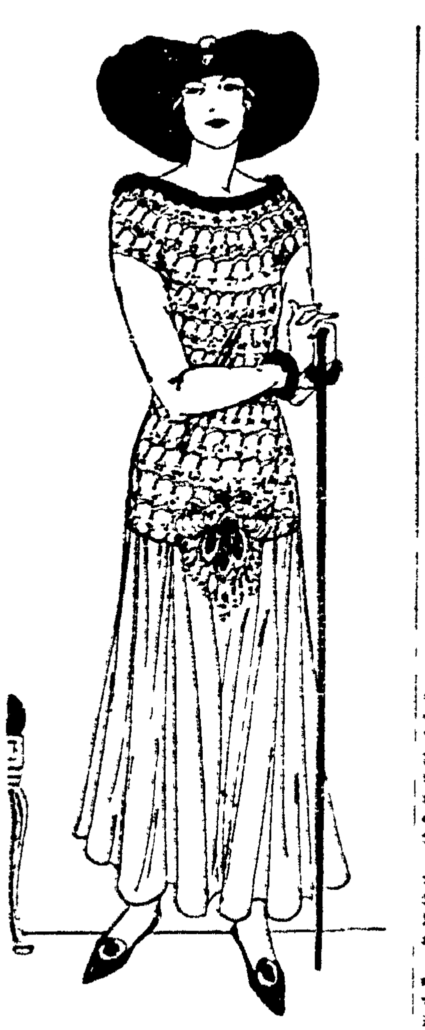
"The bodice part isn't a different material, but simply the same black charmeuse embroidered all over in blue and red," Pam observed, as the wearer passed near us.

"I like the smart embroidered motif and the way the sleeves are left plain," I approved.

"Not to mention the narrow sable fur," Pam added.

"Fur banding does give an air of richness to winter frocks" I agreed. "I'm glad Madame puts narrow fur across the back of so many of her crepe dresses It marks them as belonging distinctly to the season"

"I'm longing for some kind of new dress with very long, very tight sleeves edged in fur," Pam said with a thoughtful air. "I must plan one, and make it in my spare moments."



Blue and Red Embroider This Smart Black Cashmere Frock.

"Long sleeves give one a feeling of elegance," I agreed.

"You mustn't forget about your hat," suggested Pam, looking about us with renewed interest.

"Oh, yes," I agreed. "There's a lot in knowing what kind of hat looks well along with others"

"Indeed, there is," returned Pam "That's almost as important as knowing your type, for often a hat that looks attractive in a shop isn't half so good outside."

"Now, look at the lovely panne velvet this woman is wearing, with the frock I like It may not have looked more distinctive in the shop than some of the others, but it certainly shines here"

The only ornaments on the hat were two metal knobs appearing at the front

DORIS MEETS A HAPPY WORKER

OH, you funny fellow!" Doris laughed as she stood watching Mr. Woodpecker hammering on the trunk of the old apple tree.

Mr. Woodpecker stopped his rapping long enough to dust his feathers, shake his top-knot and go at it again.

"I suppose, when you hear the other birds singing, you want to do your share, and if you can't sing you take it out in drumming."

"Pooh!" clattered Mr. Woodpecker. "Little am I thinking about music or whether folks may or may not approve of my drumming. My family are hungry and I've very little time to make music. I hope you don't think I've been hammering this tree all morning to hear my own music."

"Well, the very idea," laughed Doris. "Then you're hunting food instead of making music. I can't see for the life of me how you can get the bugs and worms after you do find them."

"Just as easy as flying," laughed Mr. Woodpecker. "See this fish-hook tongue of mine."

Mr. Woodpecker flew down beside Doris and stuck his tongue out for her to look at. "Well," he added, "that does the work. Why, this tongue of mine can pierce and draw from the tree, even beyond the reach of my bill, any worm or bug that I see. Then, too, I have a gum or sticky liquid that flies to the end of my tongue, and anything that touches it sticks there tighter than glue could make it."

"Well, I've often wondered about you birds," said Doris. "I love to watch your red top-knots bobbing back and forth. But I never had any idea that you hammered away as a duty."

"When you meet that family of mine, you will see it's a duty all right," Mr. Woodpecker laughed, merrily. "Yet don't misunderstand me. It's a pleasure as well, for I'm mighty proud of my family. Come along and take a peek in at Mrs. Woodpecker."

He spread his pretty wings, Doris climbed upon them, and away they sailed to an old dead tree on the outskirts of the wood. Here, almost at the top, Doris spied a hole. Mrs. Woodpecker had her head out of the hole and gave a chirp of welcome as her mate sailed down and introduced Doris.

"I just want to prove to Doris that it's up to me to drum," he laughed. "I want her to see our lovely family." Mrs. Woodpecker laughed and hopped out of the hole. She moved aside and Doris peeked into the hole in the tree, and there, nestled on a nice, downy bed, were five little baby woodpeckers.

"Well, I'll say you don't have much time for playing," Doris laughed. "No wonder you drum from morning until night. Do they ever get enough to eat?"

"Always hungry," chirped Mrs. Woodpecker. "But Daddy never complains. He's the greatest worker among the bird tribes."

"Got to be," chirped Mr. Woodpecker. "And if I don't stop talking and get busy, I'll lose out." He spread his wings and Doris, bidding Mrs. Woodpecker and her family goodby, climbed up.

Mr. Woodpecker took Doris back to her own yard, where she spent the morning watching him drum on the apple trees.

DETROIT JUDGE TO SHOW SPEED DEMONS MORGUE

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 17 — Speeders convicted by Judge Charles Bartlett, next Wednesday will see an even more dismal picture of the havoc speeding has wrought than did the thirty convicted speeders who were carried to the city hospital here and brot face to face with little children, victims of whizzing automobiles. They will stare at death in the county morgue—death brot by bowling automobiles.

"When a man speeds in an automobile, he has murder in his heart," Judge Bartlett said today. "On next Wednesday, when the weekly list of speeder violators come before me, I shall show them the tragedy of their folly. They shall see death, grim death, caused by their selfishness, "face to face.'

The judge ,speaking of the hospital visit, where the speeders found ten wan faces of boy and girl victims of auto speeders staring at them, said:

"It hurt. The speeders didn't like it, but they got what was coming to them, and I believe it did them good. It was none too horrible for them; it was not horrible enough. Future speeders will get worse punishment. They will stare at death—lives ended by their mad mania.'

"The time for mercy has passed," Judge Bartlett continued, "they show no mercy, these speed maniacs as they fly thru our streets, tearing like mad men with no thot of the welfare of those who walk."

O. S. U. ELEVEN ARE READY FOR CLASH WITH IOWA SAT.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 17.—All of the regulars on O. S. O. eleven are ready to line up against the Iowa football team in O. S. U. stadium here tomorrow afternoon. Pauley, Elgin, Kaplow, Honaker and Judy, who were on the side lines for a while this week, due to minor injuries, were back in the lineup and took part in the regular team's practice last night against the freshmen and second string elevens.

The Iowa eleven is due to arrive here this morning. The visiting players probably will practice this afternoon in the stadium.

An attendance of about 50.000 is expected at tomorrow's game.

HE IS LOOKING 'EM OVER AGAIN

"Eight years of stomach and liver trouble reduced me to a walking skeleton. My skin was dried up and as yellow as a twenty-dollar gold piece. I was filled with gas and had severe pains in my right side. I could not think and had lost all ambition to do anything. Doctors' medicine did not touch me. My cousin advised Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which snatched me from the grave. I have gained sixty pounds, eat like a hired man and am looking 'em over again." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Wimmer Arnold Drug Co., and druggists everywhere.

YALE'S STAR PUNTER OUT OF GAME WITH A SPRAINED ANKLE

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 17.—Shortly before the Yale varsity eleven departed today for Trenton to await the hour for its annual game with Princeton, Ted Wight, star punter, was confined to the infirmary with a sprained ankle. The injury, it is said, will keep him out of the big game.

It is understood that if Wight is unable to play, Neale will be given his place. The latter is not as strong in punting as Wight but is regarded as a better man in advancing the ball.

All the remaining men slated to start are in excellent condition and optimism runs high among the players.

Another possible last minute change may see Hulman replace Deaver at right end. This pair is fighting nip and tuck for the position but Hulman was in the lineup the greater part of the time when the varsity held its finals yesterday.

RECOVERS FROM RHEUMATISM

"Had rheumatism five months that would go from my left knee to my back. Tried many remedies without relief. Finally used Foley Kidney Pills and in fifteen days was entirely cured," writes W. J. Oliver, Vidalia, Georgia. Backache rheumatic pains, dull headache, dizziness and blurred vision are symptoms of kidney disorder. Foley Kidney Pills quickly relieve kidney and bladder trouble.

VENIZELOS' LIFE ASSASSINS' AIM; ATHENS REPORT

ATHENS, Nov. 17.—It was reported from Bulgaria today that two Turkish Albanians named Hamdi and Anandef, had departed for Lausanne with the avowed purpose of assassinating Elutherios Venizelos, former premier of Greece, and Sir Basil Zarahoff. The latter is a Greek citizen but lives in Paris. He is known as the richest man in the world.

MENTAL HYGIENE CLINIC IS PLAN

CINCINNATI, Nov. 17.—Plans for the immediate organization of a central mental hygiene clinic, at a cost of $30,000, to co-operate with and direct the social welfare work of the various social societies, the juvenile court and the municipal court were announced here last night by officials of the community chest.

Half of the amount is available for carrying on the work.

stronger. It looks as tho the liquor interests are going to get it on the run," said the viscountess.

"I could not face commons alone, as the only woman member. It seems to me that the women in both England and the United States have been rebuffed in recent elections, but we must keep up the fight. I do not favor a political party made up exclusively of women and with men excluded from it. I believe that women should use their influence with all existing parties.

"The chief weakness of the labor party is the absence of women. The laborites, of all the parties, are the ones who need women most. Labor is going to be very effective in the new house of commons. Lloyd George and his party are going to be formidable opponents. Altho I feel the Tory government is reactionary, I am sure that it is in favor of paying the debt owed to the United States and would co-operate with the United States in general disarmament on land. There is only one thing that all of us must do and that is to work for progressive legislation in government."

SCHWAB VOICES HIS

being responsible along with that helpfulness.

"The immediate passage of the ship subsidy bill by congress will give a big impetus to American business," Schwab said. "The Bethlehem was compelled to give contracts to foreign ships to carry ore because there were no American ships available," Schwab said.

"We are the workshop of the world. We are the food shop of the world. And it is nothing less than absurd not to have our own ships out getting a fair share of the world's commerce."

Schwab said he was unable to understand why the west and the middle west, the great grain belt of the country, is opposed to the ship subsidy.

"The margin between good business and bad business is only the margin of a few points. A strong and resourceful merchant marine would make a tremendous difference in the aspect of American business."

Schwab said he was a business optimist. "Altho conditions both here and abroad are now somewhat unsettled because of European uncertainty and the uncertainty here at home as to what congress is going to do, the underlying principles of American industry are sound and business is bound to improve," he said.

Schwab came to Washington today to appear before the Federal trade Commission which is investigating the fairness of the Pittsburgh base system of fixing steel prices.

GILMORE MAN WILL RECOVER, BELIEF

Reports from the city hospital this afternoon were that S. B. Williams, aged 58, of Gilmore, Ohio, oil worker who had both legs badly crushed yesterday afternoon under a heavy beam on an oil well, was resting easily. Dr. J. W. Shaw, the attending physician, said today he believed the man would recover, and that he would not lose his legs as a result of the accident.

The man's injuries are all below his knees.

HARDING'S TENANTS VISIT PRESIDENT

MANSFIELD, O., Nov. 17 — An item from the Blooming Grove correspondent to the Mansfield News says Mr. and Mrs. Harry Erickson have gone to Washington to confer with President Harding about renting his farm in Morrow county.

The ship of state will have to weigh anchor while Skipper Harding and his prospective tenant swop over the renting of the farm.

KILLS WIFE WHEN SHE FILES SUIT FOR A DIVORCE

ELYRIA, Nov. 17.—Carl Stesner, 35, shot and killed his wife Sophia Stessner late yesterday afternoon, following divorce proceedings filed by her. Mrs. Stessner, thinking he was not at home returned to the house to get her things, when he suddenly appeared, and at the point of a gun, forced her to enter an automobile. He drove a mile down the lake road, west of Lorain, and then shot her in the head.

Driving a mile farther Stessner shot himself in the breast and fell unconscious to the roadway. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital Lorain, and is reported as improving.

PROPOSAL TO CLOSE HOSPITAL AROUSES CRITICISM IN CIN.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 17. — The contemplated closing of the Cincinnati tuberculosis sanitarium as a part of the city's retrenchment campaign, following in the wake of the defeat of a proposed extra tax levy at the recent election was attacked as a menace to the public health by Dr. Kennon Dunham, service director of the institution for 12 years, in an interview last night.

He said such a move would be a calamity that could only be paralleled by setting loose a pack of mad dogs on the community. He predicted a scourge of white plague would sweep the city and this part of Ohio if the sanitarium were closed.

The protest, voiced by Dr. Dunham and backed by other leading physicians of the city, grows out of a proposal by the city government to cut the municipal allotment for the general hospital, of which the tuberculosis institution is a branch. It has already been announced that the fire and police departments will be cut and that possibly a dozen or more fire houses in the city will be closed.

NEW MANAGER FOR BOSTON TEAM

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—It was rumored today that either Frank Chance, former leader of the old Chicago Cubs, or Bill Carrigan, who piloted the Red Sox to their championships will be named to succeed Hugh Duffy as manager of the Boston American League club.

Harry Frazee owner of the Red Sox has gone to Boston, and according to reports, will announce the identity of the new leader there within a day or two.

Slot machines have been invented to sell 12 different books in public places when coins are inserted.

LABOR LEADERS TO KEEP EYE ON WASH. ENEMIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—Leaders of national labor organizations will be here tomorrow to draw up their plans of battle against any attempt by congress to enact anti-labor legislation, it was disclosed today following a visit by Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and his assistant, H. E. Wills, to the white house.

COBB'S AVERAGE AT BAT REACHES .400

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—Baseball men along Broadway expressed considerable surprise today over the ruling of Ban Johnson, in awarding Ty Cobb an extra base hit, bringing his average up to .400 for the third time since he entered the major leagues. The ruling is without precedent, in that it nullified the decision of the local official scorer, who gave Everett Scott, of the Yankees an error on the play in question. This occurred in the game of May 15, and because it was raining at the time, the press box was nearly empty. Some of the scribes who had retired to the grand stand, gave Cobb a hit on the play. This led to a controversy.
